CHARGES CONSPIRACY TO DISCREDIT PARTY

Speaker Clark Names Republican Leaders as "Calamity Howlers."

DEFENDS TARIFF MEASURE

Blame for Conditions Is Placed Partly on Senate's Delay to Pass Money Bill.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)

Washington, December 18.—Speaker Clark charged in a speech in the House today that the Republican cries of hard times and calamity were a conspiracy by Republican leaders to discredit the administration and the Democratic party. He defended both the tariff and the currency bills.

He named as leaders in this conspiracy Senator Root, former Speaker Cannon, Republican House Leader Mann, former Governor Hadley, of Missouri, Chairman Charles D. Hilles, Republican National Committee and "others of less note."

"I regret that Mr. Mann is inspired by political motives in his talk about hard times, following the inauguration of the Democratic government," said the Speaker. "It is an incontestable statement that every good citizen, Democrat, Republican, Bull Moose, Prohibitionist or Socialist, wants to see this country prosper because we have a stake in the republic, respect-ally those of us who have wives and children."

The Speaker placed part of the blame for existing industrial conditions on delay by the Senate in passing the currency bill.

"Had the Senate, within two weeks after its passage by the House, passed the currency bill," he claimed, "there would have been no occasion and no excuse for the attack of Mr. Mann and other calamity howlers."

Quoting James J. Hill, railroad builder of the Northwest, the Speaker said that tightness in the money market was due to banks holding back their money because of uncertainty on currency legislation. Once this legislation is passed, the banks will let out the money and there will be no longer any financial or industrial trouble.

"The House bill offered the banks and the country the best financial plan that human ingenuity could frame," asserted the Speaker.

In prefacing his speech on industrial conditions, Mr. Mann said ironically: "I take it, that in view of the attitude of the President concerning the Carabao dinner, we will soon be reduced to the point where no man can either criticize or smile without first asking the consent of the government authorities. Throughout the country today, wherever men are congregated, there is a quiet discussion going on now, when, when cold weather sets in, now so fortunately held off, will end in a roar and a howl that even will penetrate the ears of the deaf Democrats."

"Municipal lodging houses will soon be in demand all over the country. Twenty years ago the City Hall at Chicago was opened at night that the unemployed might lie on the floor to secure a little rest and sleep. I never thought that it was possible in this great nation for that condition ever to be brought about, even by Democratic legislation.

"I thought the country had become too prosperous, too great, with too many industries well established, for even bad legislation, or the threat of worse, to reduce the country to the position when such men would be seeking opportunity to lie on the floors of the public buildings and yet that is the condition in Chicago today."

Threatening More Trouble. "What are you doing to relieve these conditions in the country? Nothing. You are threatening more trouble. No one desires to see the country lie prostrate. No political advantage will ever accrue to the man who helps to contribute to disaster."

"The President of the United States could today do much toward reviving confidence if he would. But they are pursuing the fatuous policies which they talked about on the stump for so many years, regardless of its effect upon the body politics or the people of the country."

"I attribute this condition," concluded Mr. Mann, "partly to the tariff bill, partly to the threat of political control of banking and currency, partly to other things, and finally to a general lack of capacity on the part of the Democratic party to govern the country."

Speaker Clark went to the defense of the tariff bill with the declaration: "When you remember that Senator Root, ex-Speaker Cannon, former Governor Hadley, of Missouri, and Chairman Charles D. Hilles and Mr. Mann are all giving out the same kind of statements on the same identical line, I do not believe that I exceed the bounds of propriety when I say that it seems to me like a Republican conspiracy against the prosperity of the country."

"Mr. Mann, while howling calamity, disclaims that he is a calamity howler. It seems strange that nobody has heard of these remarkable statistics of fallacies that Mr. Mann has collated. There is no big city in the country that hasn't idle men in it. There never was, and there never will be."

The Speaker commented on the drought that devastated sections of the Middle West last summer, claiming: "It reduced the business of the merchants in the cities of Chicago, St. Louis, Kansas City, and in great centers of trade in this country. The main proposition that runs through Mr. Mann's speech and all the others of the same kind is that when the Democrats are in you have hard times and when the Republicans are in you have good times."

Refers to Panic of 1897. He claimed that there was prosperity in this country under the Wilson bill and a panic under the Dingley bill.

Senator Aldrich is a pretty good authority on Republican laws," said the Speaker. "Mr. Aldrich said that the panic of 1897, which came under the Dingley law, was the worst panic that ever struck this country. If anybody doubts that statement let him see the records; you couldn't get your own money out of the bank with a jimmie."

"In 1907 I made a speech something like that delivered today by Mr. Mann," said the Speaker. "I talked about Republican soup houses. We had a municipal soup house in Washington at that time, which has since been taken over by the Federal government. The people are satisfied with the tariff, and had the Senate passed the currency bill in approximately the same shape as was passed by the House within two weeks after action by this body there wouldn't have been this talk from Mr. Mann and the other distinguished gentlemen who are howling calamity."

NEW MARBLE ALTAR IS CONSECRATED

Solemn Services at Winchester Are Conducted by Bishop O'Connell.

Winchester, Va., December 18.—A large and handsome new white marble altar, which was recently built in the sanctuary of the Church of the Sacred Heart by Baltimore contractors, was formally consecrated today with very elaborate and solemn ceremonies, which were presided over by Rt. Rev. Dennis J. O'Connell, Bishop of Diocese of Richmond.

The services, which began at 7 o'clock this morning, and were followed by the celebration of high mass, were largely attended, the seating capacity of the church being taxed to its utmost to accommodate Catholic and Protestant alike.

Those assisting Bishop O'Connell were the pastor, Rev. John McVeety; Rev. William A. McKeefry, a former pastor, and Rev. John A. Curran, both of Martinsburg, W. Va., and Rev. James A. Gibson, of Harper's Ferry, W. Va. Now stations of the cross were also consecrated by the bishop.

The improvements, which contribute to make the local Roman Catholic church one of the most imposing edifices of that faith in the State, were made possible by the liberality of the late Nathaniel Routzahn, a native of Frederick, Md., but for many years a widely known Winchester photographer, who set aside a fund in his will for the new altar and stations of the cross.

It was Mr. Routzahn, who, during the early part of the Civil War, made the photograph of General Thomas J. "Stonewall" Jackson, the noted Confederate commander, which has always been regarded by Jackson's most intimate friends and admirers as the best picture ever made of him. The Jackson portraits painted and engraved since the war are, as a rule, made from the Routzahn photograph.

Bishop O'Connell was for a number of years pastor of the Church of the Sacred Heart here, and quite a large number of prelates now holding high offices in the Catholic Church in the United States, including Cardinal Gibbons, were in charge of the local church during the early days of their ministerial careers.

Bishop O'Connell's predecessor, the late Bishop Van de Vyver of Richmond, began his work in this country at Winchester and Harper's Ferry.

DON'T LET YOUR HAIR SPOIL YOUR GOOD LOOKS

Take the right care of your hair, and instead of spoiling your good looks, it will improve them. You can't beautify your hair with barrettes, ribbons and such things. Kick-knacks make homely hair look even worse, because the contrast shows off its ugliness to greater effect.

If you want beautiful hair—soft, silky, lustrous and glossy—use Harmony Hair Beautifier, a dainty, liquid hair dressing. Use it also if you want your hair to go into place—in wavy, graceful fashion—more easily, and stay where it is. It overcomes the unpleasant, oily odor with a delightful rose fragrance. Very easy to apply—simply sprinkle a little on your hair each time before brushing it. Contains no oil; will not change color of hair, nor darken gray hair.

To keep hair and scalp dandruff-free and clean, use Harmony Shampoo. This pure liquid shampoo gives an instantaneous rich lather that immediately penetrates to every part of hair and scalp, insuring a quick, thorough cleansing. Washed off just as quickly, the entire operation takes only a few moments. Contains nothing that can harm the hair; leaves no harshness or stickiness—just a sweet freshness.

Both preparations come in odd-shaped, very ornamental bottles, with sprinkler tops. Harmony Hair Beautifier, $1.00. Harmony Shampoo, 50c. Both guaranteed to satisfy you in every way, or your money back. Sold in this community only at our store—The Red-All Store—one of the more than 7,000 leading drug stores of the United States, Canada and Great Britain, which own the big Harmony Laboratories in Boston, where the many celebrated Harmony Perfume and Toilet Preparations are made. HAWK MISTAKES MAN FOR RABBIT

Bird of Prey Pounces Upon Huntsman, and Is Captured in Struggle.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)

Fredericksburg, Va., December 18.—J. S. Spicer, of this city, went hunting turkeys in Spotsylvania County yesterday and had an unusual and dangerous experience. While well located in a brush pile and undergrowth, he commenced calling turkeys, and expected that some would appear. In a short time a large hawk alighted on the limb of a tree nearby, and was close enough for Mr. Spicer to see the blink of the hawk's eyes. While waiting for him to turn his head to get a shot at him, the hawk's eyes met Mr. Spicer's. The hawk evidently thought he was close to a rabbit or turkey, and as quick as a flash made a dive at Mr. Spicer, seeing only his eyes through the brush. Before Mr. Spicer could fire the hawk was on him. He threw up his left hand to ward it from his face, but the hawk was so large and struck with such force that his talons pinched Spicer's hand. Mr. Spicer bore the hawk to the ground, and getting his knife from his pocket with his free hand, he cut the leaders in the hawk's legs, releasing his grip, and then holding on to the bird, succeeded in bringing him to Fredericksburg alive. The hawk was afterwards killed in the presence of several friends, and Mr. Spicer values the bird as a trophy of his hunt.

State Highway Commissioner George P. Coleman was here yesterday, having come in his automobile to inspect the improved roads along the Richmond-Washington Highway, to this point, and from here went to Stafford to inspect the good road improvement work in that county, which has been progressing finely with the good weather. He returned to Richmond last night by rail.

The recent appointment of Mr. Coleman as State Highway Commissioner to succeed Captain Wilson, assigned, was exceedingly gratifying to the people of this section, where Mr. Coleman is so well and favorably known, having been associated with the people here for several years in connection with the construction of permanent improved roads, which has been going on extensively in this section. Accompanying Mr. Coleman was his assistant, C. B. Scott, Mr. Heckler, of Richmond, and Contractor Lynch, who has a large force of men, teams and machinery at work on some portions of the road between here and Richmond.

ON ACCREDITED LIST.

High Standard Reached by Crewe High School.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)

Crewe, Va., December 18.—The authorities of the Crewe High School are in receipt of a letter from the University of Virginia and State Department of Education, announcing that the institution has been placed on the list of fully accredited high schools.

The requirements upon which schools are admitted to this class are very rigid, and the benefits arising from such standing are manifold. Much credit is due the board of trustees for its able management in bringing the school to advanced standing.

To meet the regulations new equipment has been ordered as follows: Webster's new International Dictionary, Baugh and Lamb microscope and laboratory supplies for botanical and zoological departments; planetarium maps, globes and charts for work in physiology and physiography; complete alphabetical system of files and records.

The graduating class is large, and everything points to the completion of a successful session.

The Christmas holidays will begin Saturday.

Declines to Make Race.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)

Winchester, Va., December 18.—Philip W. Weaver, clerk of the Circuit Court of Page County, who had been urged by some of his friends to become a candidate for the judgeship of the circuit composed of Rockingham and Page Counties, has declined to run, and thus leaves the field open to Judge T. N. Haas, of Harrisonburg, who has been endorsed by twenty-two of the thirty practicing attorneys of Rockingham County.
